Inlet Harbor reopened its doors on February 14, 1997 with 16 new owners and will commemorate eight years of great business. Redwood Wharton, the grandson of the famous Joseph Douglas Wharton who established the Wharton School of Finance in Pennsylvania in 1887, founded Inlet Harbor Marina in 1940. And with so much success in the marina he decided to open a fish fry shack and named it the Sand Dollar Bar & Grill in 1944. In 1950 Captain Redwood expanded the restaurant to a 100-seat restaurant that he renamed "Inlet Harbor Restaurant. He then, sold the marina and restaurant in 1983. Unfortunately the restaurant remained closed until July 1, 1996 when 16 local investors purchased the property and completely renovated the restaurant with the area's largest outdoor deck, including a marina, bait & tackle shop and a gift shop. Proving Inlet Harbor Marina & Restaurant a spectacular entertainment destination.
